Daniel M. Snyder

Owner & Chairman

Daniel M. Snyder purchased the Washington Redskins in 1999 and has since consistently devoted his time, energy and resources to improvement in all areas of the National Football League franchise. On the field, the team has played in four post-season games, twice coming within one game of vying for the NFC championship, while also maintaining winning ways in the Redskins business and marketing operations. Forbes magazine continues to rank the Redskins as the nation's most valuable sports franchise, and the second most valuable sports organization in the world.

Snyder, 42, is prominent in the affairs of the NFL, serving on the Broadcast Committee, the Business Ventures Committee, the Digital Media Committee, and most recently being appointed to the Hall of Fame Committee which oversees the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, OH.

Snyder was founder, Chairman and CEO of Snyder Communications, Inc. (at the time he was the youngest CEO of a New York Stock Exchange company). From its launch in 1985 the company grew to a global organization of 12,000 employees, 77 offices in 17 countries, and more than $1 billion in annual revenues. The company's leading role in providing over 200 of the Fortune 500 client base with targeted marketing solutions, including advertising and marketing services, led to its acquisition in March 2000 by the French marketing firm Havas for more than $2.3 billion, at the time the largest such merger in the history of the advertising/marketing industry.

He is founder and Chairman Emeritus of inVentiv Health (NASDAQ: VTIV), one of the most successful financial performers on the NASDAQ stock exchange. He is Chairman of the Board of Dick Clark Productions, Inc., which his RedZone Capital private investment firm recently purchased. Snyder is also Chairman of the Board of Six Flags, Inc., (NYSE: SIX) where he is the largest shareholder through his RedZone Capital. Early this year, RedZone added the Johnny Rockets chain of hamburger, fries and shake shops to its portfolio of owned companies.

Additionally, Snyder is founder and Managing Member of the Board of Red Zebra Broadcasting, LLC, which currently operates five radio stations. The three Washington-area stations, collectively known as "TripleXESPN," serve as the flagship for Redskins broadcasts and feature popular ESPN radio shows as well as locally generated programming. He is a partner with Tom Cruise in Cruise/Wagner Productions, the actor's production company, and he is active in a variety of other private business ventures, both as an investor and as an advisor to management. He is a frequent invitee to share his experiences and views with business organizations nationwide.

Snyder continues as one of the Washington area's most prominent community leaders. He is active in the Larry King Heart Foundation, and devotes most of his public philanthropic efforts to Washington's Children's Hospital and the Center for Missing and Exploited Children. His support enabled construction of the Snyder Family Emergency Medicine and Trauma Center at Children's Hospital. He is a member of the Children's Hospital Foundation Board of Directors. He also funded construction of the Daniel M. Snyder and Family Communication Center at the Center for Missing and Exploited Children. Each day the Center handles hundreds of calls from around the nation from law enforcement organizations, parents of missing children, runaways seeking help and people responding to the Center's well-known awareness campaigns on behalf of missing children. He also serves on the Executive Board of the Martin Luther King Memorial Project. Snyder founded the Washington Redskins Charitable Foundation in 2000. The Foundation draws on the prominence and leverage of the Redskins organization to fund and further community projects such as summer reading programs, community-based redevelopment initiatives and renovation of high school football facilities throughout Maryland, Virginia and Washington, D.C.

Before launching a business initiative or making a critical business decision, they are the key individuals Snyder has turned to as partners, advisors, and confidants.

Snyder's sister Michele Snyder, a founder of Snyder Communications, shares his ambitious spirit. Her creativity, operational skills, and business instincts have played an instrumental role in the success of Team Snyder over the years.

A calm and steady influence have been the contributions of Gerry and Arlette Snyder, parents of the Redskins owner. A long-time journalist and author with more than two dozen books to his credit, Gerry Snyder was editor-in-chief of Snyder Communications during the early years of the company. Gerry Snyder died in 2003 at age 69. The team training facility at Redskins Park has been named in his memory. Arlette Snyder, who maintains the family ownership position in the team, continues her role as a primary advisor to the owner and his other partners.

Redskins Firsts

■ The Washington Redskins became the first and only team in NFL history to win a World Championship in their first year by defeating the Chicago Bears 28-21 to claim the 1937 title. On February 13, 1937, the National Football League approved the transfer of the Boston Redskins franchise to Washington, D.C. The Redskins, in their first season in Washington, compiled an 8-3 record on the road to the NFL title.

■ On September 16, 1937, the Redskins played their first game in D.C. Washington was victorious over the New York Giants at a flood-lighted Griffith Stadium, 13-3.

■ On August 9, 1938, the Washington Redskins formed the NFL's first marching band. Later, on August 17, 1938, "Hail to the Redskins" made its debut as the first fight song by any team in the NFL.

■ In 1938, the Redskins became the first team in the NFL to have its own radio network carry all its games.

■ In 1950, the Washington Redskins became the first team in the NFL to have all its games televised locally. On September 26, 1954, the Redskins became the first team in the NFL to have its game televised regionally, when their contest at San Francisco was televised back to Washington and throughout the South.

■ The first regular season game at D.C. stadium (renamed RFK Stadium in 1968) was played on October 1, 1961.

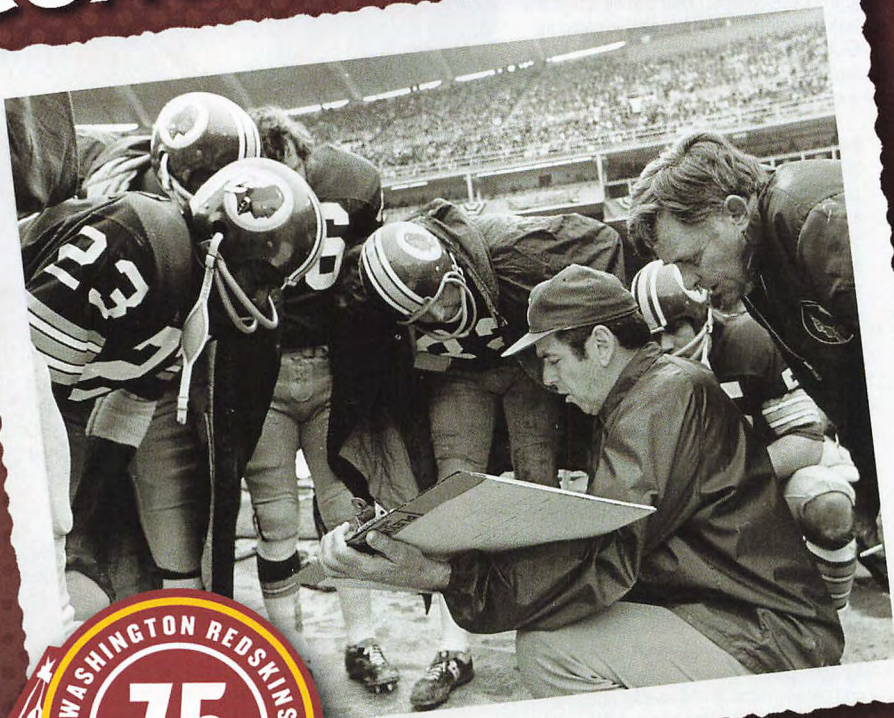

■ It didn't come easy, but on December 17, 1961 the Redskins finally got their first D.C. Stadium win in the '61 season finale with Dallas. Dickie James scored four touchdowns, a Redskins single-game record (Larry Brown tied it in 1973), to lead the Redskins to a 34-24 victory. The win ended a 23-game undefeated streak for the Redskins dating back to the 1960 season.

■ The Washington Redskins became the first and only team in NFL history to win three Super Bowls (XVII, XXII, XXVI) with three different quarterbacks (Joe Theismann, Doug Williams, Mark Rypien).

■ On September 14, 1997, the Redskins opened their new stadium, now called FedExField, with a thrilling 19-13 overtime victory against the Arizona Cardinals in front of a record crowd of Washington fans.

COACHES / STAFF

Joe Gibbs

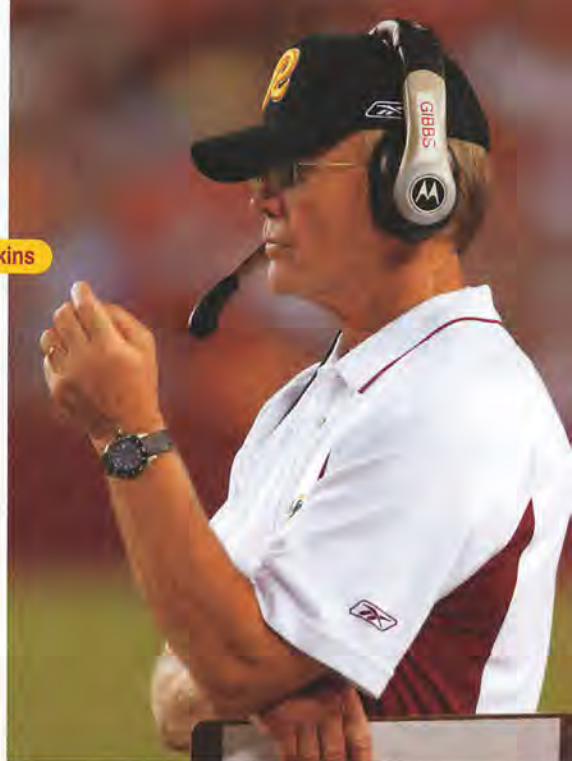

Head Coach and Team President

24th NFL Season/16th Redskins

Throughout his Hall of Fame career head coach Joe Gibbs has faced adversity on numerous occasions and each time he has responded the only way he knows how: to work even harder. That can be a difficult task for someone already as dedicated as Gibbs is to the Washington Redskins and their fans, but that is exactly what he has done again.

The offseason began immediately following the Redskins final game of the 2006 season and coaches and the personnel department have worked tirelessly to evaluate every aspect of the team in preparation for the 2007 season. This will mark only the third time in his 15-year career Gibbs will be coming off a losing season and in both previous incidents, the team posted a 10-6 record, including a playoff appearance most recently during the 2005 season.

While the dividends of the offseason work won't be known until the 2007 season concludes, the Redskins enter the year confident that they have the core group of players together needed to be successful. Thus, Gibbs has led a diligent approach to the offseason that focused on keeping that core group together, while adding respected and known players to the squad. The team lost just one starter to free agency this offseason, while resigning many valuable key members of the squad, including offensive lineman Todd Wade, long snapper Ethan Albright, punter Derrick Frost, tight end Todd Yoder, and defensive back and special team standout Vernon Fox. In fact, the process actually began before the 2006 season ended, when the team signed running back Ladell Betts to a contract extension thus keeping him off the free agent market. The Redskins also brought in many key free agents, all of which held strong ties to the organization, including linebacker London Fletcher, who played for assistant head coach – defense Gregg Williams in Buffalo, and former Redskin cornerback Fred Smoot, who returns to the team after two years in Minnesota. Other offseason additions include safety Omar Stoutmire, who spent the 2005 season with the Redskins, cornerback David Macklin, and offensive lineman Jason Fabini. Draft day brought the Redskins what many considered the top rated defensive player available in LSU safety LaRon Landry, along with linebackers Dallas Sartz and H.B. Blades, quarterback Jordan Palmer, and tight end Tyler Ecker. In addition, Gibbs returns one of the most experienced and respected coaching staffs in the NFL to help guide the organization back into playoff form.

It should be no surprise that Gibbs would fall back on what he knows best after a difficult season, as his relentless work ethic, demanding leadership style, and a tradition of excellence is what defined his first tenure with the team for 12 glorious years. On January 7, 2004, when team owner Daniel M. Snyder named Gibbs the Head Coach and Team President of the franchise, he welcomed back one of the most respected and successful figures in Washington Redskins and Washington sports history. First coaching the team from 1981 to 1992, Gibbs turned the Redskins into an NFL dynasty. He led the Redskins to four Super Bowls — winning three titles — and accumulated a 124-60 record during regular-season play and an amazing 16-5 post-season record (.762 win percentage). No Redskins coach has enjoyed such success on the playing field.

Among NFL coaches, Gibbs holds a special place as well. His 162 career victories is the 12th best in NFL history, accomplished in just 15 seasons, at least three seasons less than any of the 11 coaches that have recorded more wins all-time. His all-time win percentage of .635 is the third-best among all NFL coaches with more than 125 wins (Don Shula and George Halas).

Gibbs took the helm of the Washington franchise as a rookie head coach in 1981 and it didn't take long to turn the Redskins into a winning machine. After just his second season, he led his Redskins team to Super Bowl XVII, beating the Miami Dolphins 27-17. He returned to the Championship game in 1983 and was named NFL Coach of the Year. The Redskins went on to win Super Bowls XXII and XXVI under his watch, building a tradition of excellence that has remained unmatched to this day. Four coaches have won three Super Bowls in NFL history. Only one, Joe Gibbs, has done it with three different quarterbacks, spread out over a nine-year period.

An offensive innovator, Gibbs utilized both the short and long passing games, getting the most out of offensive talent such as quarterbacks Mark Rypien and Joe Theismann, and receivers Art Monk, Gary Clark and Ricky Sanders during his first tenure with the team. He popularized three-receiver sets and the trend of using an H-back as a way of neutralizing opponents' pass rush efforts. His dominating offensive line, tagged the "Hogs" during the late 1980s and early 90s, was a constant throughout the Gibbs' years, and included mainstay leaders such as Russ Grimm, Mark May and Joe Jacoby. They opened up holes for some of the Redskins' most successful running backs, including Hall of Famer John Riggins and current running backs coach Earnest Byner.

In all, Gibbs' Redskins recorded 11 winning seasons during his 12 years, taking the team to the playoffs eight times. In the history of the NFL, only Vince Lombardi and Bill Belichick have had better playoff win percentages. He began his coaching career at San Diego State, his alma mater, under Don Coryell. He joined the Aztecs staff in 1964 as a graduate assistant and coached the offensive line during a period when the team won 27 of 31 games, including an 11-0 mark in 1966.

In 1967, Gibbs joined Bill Peterson's staff at Florida State as offensive line coach and was part of a 15-4-1 record over two seasons. In 1969, John McKay brought Gibbs to USC and the Trojans went 15-4-1 over the next two years. The winning ways continued when Gibbs joined Frank Broyles' staff at Arkansas and the Razorbacks recorded a 14-8-1 mark over the 1971-72 seasons.

Gibbs and Coryell were reunited in 1973 when the latter named Gibbs offensive backfield coach for the St. Louis Cardinals. From 1973-77, the Cardinals were 42-27-1, earning two NFC East titles.

In 1978, Gibbs became Tampa Bay's offensive coordinator under McKay. After one season with the Buccaneers, Coryell called again in 1979 and tabbed him as offensive coordinator at San Diego. In two seasons as the pilot for "Air Coryell," Gibbs helped the Chargers win two AFC West titles behind the record-setting passing of Dan Fouts. His brilliant coaching career then caught the attention of Jack Kent Cooke, who named Gibbs the Washington Redskins' 17th head coach on January 13, 1981.

Gibbs took his rightful place among other NFL legends in 1996, when he was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

His leadership skills have not been relegated to just the football playing field. In 1993, he left the Redskins and the NFL at the pinnacle of his career, looking to spend more time with his family and his NASCAR race team, established in 1991. He quickly established Joe Gibbs Racing into a force to be reckoned with on the NASCAR circuit, assembling a team that would go on to find success similar to what he achieved in the NFL. In just his second year, Gibbs' team, with driver Dale Jarrett, won the Daytona 500, the sport's premier event. He would go on to recruit drivers Bobby Labonte and Tony Stewart, both of whom flourished under Joe Gibbs Racing, taking the NASCAR season-long championship Winston Cup crowns in 2000 (Labonte) and 2002 (Stewart). Stewart also won the Nextel Cup crown in 2005. Denny Hamlin and J.J. Yeley both joined the JGR team in 2006 and Hamlin would complete an impressive first-year run that resulted in him being named NASCAR's Rookie of the Year.

His success on the playing field and the race track is matched by his involvement in the community. Gibbs is the founder of Youth for Tomorrow, a home for troubled teenage boys and girls in Bristow, VA. The foundation houses 20-40 children year-round, with an extensive staff that teaches, cares and instills in teens principles they can use to guide themselves when they leave the home. Over the years, Gibbs' personal commitment and time at the home has turned hundreds of kids away from drugs, alcohol and crime, while demonstrating to them that they are each a valuable and important asset to this world.

Gibbs in the Postseason

In 1991, Joe Gibbs joined Don Shula (6), Tom Landry (6), Chuck Noll (4) and Bud Grant (4) as the only head coaches in the NFL to make four or more appearances in the Super Bowl. His three Super Bowl wins surpassed Vince Lombardi, Shula and Landry, and tied him with Bill Walsh and more recently, Bill Belichick, for the second most victories in the Championship game.

Gibbs became the only coach in NFL history to win three Super Bowls with three different starting quarterbacks. He won Super Bowl XVII (27-17) with Joe Theismann, Super Bowl XXII (42-10) with Doug Williams, and Super Bowl XXVI (37-24) with Mark Rypien.

His 17-6 (.739) playoff record remains among the best, and his 17 playoff wins ties him for first all-time with Don Shula among NFL coaches. Among coaches with 100 career victories, he owns the third best mark in NFL history.

Youth for Tomorrow

Youth for Tomorrow (YFT) is a residential private school and counseling center for 80 at risk teenage boys and girls from the metropolitan area. These children (ages 11-17) live in homes on a 200 acre campus near Manassas, Virginia. Founded by Redskins Head Coach Joe Gibbs in 1986, YFT provides care 24 hours per day, 365 days per year. Each resident attends YFT's accredited secondary school (230 days school year), receives supervision from Houseparents and Counselors who work closely with the resident's parent(s), probation officers, YFT teachers, social workers and other professional staff. Firm in the belief that area teenagers could benefit from a residential care facility combining rehabilitation, faith, education and loving care, Coach Gibbs, with the help of hundreds of private donors, organizations and corporations have served 770 area children and their families.

Al Saunders

Associate Head Coach – Offense

25th NFL Season/2nd Redskins

Regarded as one of the most accomplished and innovative offensive minds in all of football with experience as both a head coach and offensive coordinator, Al Saunders enters his second season directing the Washington Redskins offense.

In just his first season at the helm the Redskins offense managed the type of impressive numbers in many categories that has been commonplace for a Saunders' led offensive unit. The team finished fourth in the League in rushing, averaging 138.5 yards a game and with a League leading 41 carries of 10 yards or more. And while the ground attack was grinding out the yards, the offensive line was protecting the quarterback allowing just 19 sacks on the season (third fewest in NFL) and protecting the football with just 17 total giveaways on the year (second fewest in NFL and second fewest in team history).

In fact, the Redskins offense ranked in the top 10 of several categories in 2006, including five minute touchdown drives (3rd), plus-ten yard runs (3rd), plus-four yard rushing (4th) rushing first downs per game (4th), plus-40 yard pass plays (5th), 10-play touchdown drives (5th), average yards on first down (7th), yards per rush (8th), and yards per play (10th) to name just a few.

Prior to joining the Redskins, Saunders finished his 15th season coaching with the Kansas City Chiefs, which included five years as Assistant Head Coach and Offensive Coordinator under Head Coach Dick Vermeil. He also coached with Vermeil in St. Louis, leading their offense to a Super Bowl title in 2000. He previously served a 10-year stint with the Chiefs as Assistant Head Coach/Wide Receivers Coach under then head coach Marty Schottenheimer from '89-98. During that 10-year span, he was part of a Chiefs' coaching staff which helped guide Kansas City to three AFC West titles and seven playoff berths. In total, Saunders has been associated with 11 postseason appearances, five division crowns and a World Championship during his NFL tenure. Saunders was named USA Today's NFL Offensive Coach of the Year in 2005.

In the five seasons with the Chiefs prior to joining the Redskins, Saunders presided over the NFL's most prolific scoring offense. During that span, no NFL team registered more points than the 2,157 accumulated by the Chiefs. In 2004, Kansas City scored 30+ points in five consecutive games, a first in team history. The Chiefs led the NFL in scoring in both 2002 and 2003, becoming the first AFC team to lead the league in scoring in back-to-back seasons since San Diego in '81-82. During the 2003 season alone, the Chiefs piled up a franchise-record 484 points after registering a league-high 467 points in 2002.

Dating back to 2001 when Saunders took over as offensive coordinator, the Chiefs ranked first in the NFL with 30,470 net yards of total offense (379.3 ypg). The Chiefs' opponent numbers during that 80-game span from 2001-05 are also the league's best in the following seven categories: offensive TDs (262), rushing TDs (131), total first downs (1,760), Red Zone TD percentage (64.1%), runs of 10+ yards (312), passing yards per attempt (7.83) and passing yards per completion (12.61).

In 2005, Saunders led the Kansas City Chiefs offense to a number one overall ranking in the NFL for the second consecutive season. The most explosive offense in the NFL led the League with 70 total plays over 20 yards including an NFL-high 15 touchdowns. Kansas City also led the the League in yards per play (5.85) and topped the NFL in eight other offensive categories.

In 2004, the Chiefs led the NFL in total offense for the first time in franchise history, accumulating a franchise-record 6,695 yards or an average of 418.4 ypg. In the process, Kansas City established an NFL record with 398 first downs, breaking the previous mark of 387 set by the '84 Dolphins. The Chiefs also led the NFL in 24 different offensive categories, while tying or breaking 18 different single-season team records, including marks for offensive TDs (58), third-down conversion percentage (47.2%), most games with 400 or more yards of total offense (nine) and most consecutive 400-yard games (five). Under Saunders, the Chiefs received unprecedented production in the running game. Kansas City tied a 42-year-old NFL record by registering 63 rushing TDs over the 2003-04 seasons, a two-season mark originally established by the '61-'62 Packers. The 2004 Chiefs owned the distinction of becoming the first team in League history to have three different running backs produce a 150-yard rushing game in a season and were the only NFL squad ever to rush for eight TDs in a League contest.

While the Chiefs ground exploits are well-documented, Kansas City has also developed a prolific passing attack under Saunders' direction. In 2004, Trent Green boasted a franchise-high eight 300-yard passing games as Kansas City rolled up franchise records with 370 completions and 4,406 net passing yards. Kansas City also established team records with 228 passing first downs and an overall 65.95 completion percentage. Meanwhile, Tony Gonzalez shattered the NFL single-season receiving record for tight ends with 102 catches. Green finished the 2005 season with a QB rating above 90 for the fourth consecutive year, joining Brett Favre and Steve Young as the only three quarterbacks in NFL history to do so.

But record-breaking numbers were the norm for Kansas City's offense under Saunders. In 2003, the Chiefs led the league in 18 different offensive categories, including virtually every Red Zone category. That season, Kansas City owned NFL-high marks in Red Zone points (324), Red Zone TDs (42), Red Zone scoring percentage (98.1) and Red Zone TD percentage (77.8).

In 2002, Kansas City broke or tied 22 single-season team offensive records. Most notably, Kansas City turned the ball over a franchise-low 15 times (non-strike season) and broke two long-standing NFL records by fumbling just seven times and losing only two of those fumbles. The Chiefs averaged 148.6 rushing yards per game to rank third in the NFL as Priest Holmes finished the year with 2,287 yards from scrimmage, 1,615 ground yards and nine 100-yard rushing games, all figures which established team single-season records.

Prior to rejoining the Chiefs, Saunders spent two seasons with St. Louis where he coached wide receivers and also served as associate head coach in 2000. During that two-year span, Saunders helped revitalize a Rams offense as the club steamrolled its way to a 13-3 regular season record in '99 and a triumph over Tennessee in Super Bowl XXXIV.

The Rams paced the NFL that season with 6,412 yards of total offense, good for a remarkable 400.8 ypg average. St. Louis also led the league in passing offense with 272.1 yards per game and topped the NFL in scoring by averaging 32.9 points per contest. The 526 total points amassed by the '99 squad ranked as the fourth-highest tally in NFL annals.

In 2000, Saunders was part of a St. Louis coaching staff which helped the Rams score 540 points (33.8 ppg), the third-highest single-season total in NFL history. The club also led the league with an NFL-record 442.2 yards of total offense per game and paced the NFL in passing offense (327.0 ypg) for the second straight season, setting another league record in the process. St. Louis amassed 7,075 yards of total offense and 5,232 passing yards, breaking the previous marks established by the '84 Miami Dolphins.

Before initially joining the Chiefs in '89, Saunders served as San Diego's head coach from the midpoint of the '86 season through the '88 campaign. In his first full season as head coach in '87 he guided the Chargers to an 8-7 record, a four-game improvement from the club's 4-12 finish the previous year. That 8-7 record represented San Diego's first winning season in five years and included a perfect 3-0 record in replacement games, a feat matched only by Redskins head coach Joe Gibbs that season. Under Saunders' direction in '87, the Chargers also won eight straight games, the club's longest winning streak in 26 seasons. He joined San Diego in '83 as receivers coach in what was one of the most exiting and prolific pass offenses in NFL history. Behind Hall of Fame QB Dan Fouts and the Chargers electrifying receiving corps coached by Saunders, San Diego led the league in passing and total offense in both '83 and '85.

Saunders began his career as a graduate assistant under John McKay at Southern California ('70-71). He then coached receivers at Missouri ('72) before heading the offensive backfield at Utah State ('73-75). He was an assistant head coach, quarterbacks coach and offensive coordinator at California from '76-81, leading an offense that set 32 national, conference and school records. In '82, he served as the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach for Johnny Majors at the University of Tennessee.

Born in London, England, he became one of only four foreign-born head coaches in NFL history after becoming a naturalized U.S. citizen in '60. A three-year starter, team captain and Academic All-America pick as a defensive back at San Jose State ('66-68), Saunders also played wide receiver for the Spartans and is enshrined in the school's Hall of Fame. As a recipient of California's State Graduate Fellowship for Academic Excellence, he earned a Master's degree in education from Stanford and was a doctoral candidate in athletic administration and sports management at USC.

Saunders has been recognized in Who's Who in America and was awarded California's prestigious Golden State Award for community leadership and service in '89. A former All-America swimmer and national record holder, Saunders is also an accomplished distance runner. In '96, he competed in the Kansas City and Los Angeles Marathons, as well as the 100th running of the Boston Marathon and was also crowned the Road Runners Club of America's (R.R.C.A.) Masters 5K National Champion.

Gregg Williams

Assistant Head Coach – Defense

18th NFL Season/4th Redskins

When Joe Gibbs signed back on as Redskins Head Coach, his top priority was to put together a great coaching staff. He wasted no time on the defensive side of the ball, convincing Gregg Williams to join his staff as assistant head coach, responsible for building a dominating Redskins defense. Williams, in turn, wasted no time in responding to that challenge, putting together a respected coaching staff and building a formidable defense in his first two seasons with the team.

While the Redskins didn't post the type of statistics in 2006 that had become commonplace the previous two seasons, Williams and his coaching staff have worked diligently throughout the offseason to ensure the 2007 defense returns to its standard of being among the League's elite. The team returns a talented core of players which includes established veterans and young players prepared to take the next step under the tutelage of one of the most respected defensive coaching staffs in the League. The team's free agent acquisitions this offseason reflect the desire of players to play in a Williams' led defensive system, as the new additions to the defensive side of the ball include faces familiar to the organization and coaching staff. Free agent linebacker London Fletcher joins the Redskins and reunites with Williams and Jerry Gray, both of whom spent two seasons in Buffalo with the prolific tackler as head coach and defensive coordinator respectively. In addition, the team has added defensive back Fred Smoot, who returns to Washington after two seasons with the Vikings and safety Omar Stoutmire, who returns to the organization after spending 2006 in New Orleans. The Redskins also used the draft to add one of the top defensive collegiate players available with the addition of LSU safety LaRon Landry and also added depth to the linebacker position with the addition of second day draftees USC's Dallas Sartz and Pittsburgh's H.B. Blades.

Williams brought a brand of defense based on toughness and persistence when he joined the Redskins prior to the 2004 season. In addition, he has established a proven track record for shaping NFL defensive squads into among the league's best year after year and that was reflected in his first two seasons with the organization. In 2004, he employed an aggressive, blitzing-style defense that translated into one of the most formidable groups in the NFL. The unit ranked third in the NFL and first in the NFC. They also finished third against the rush and seventh against the pass in the NFL.

In 2005, the Redskins defense was instrumental in leading the club to its first trip to the playoffs since 1999 and finish with a 10-6 regular season record. It also propelled the team to a playoff victory and a berth in the Divisional Playoffs. During the last six games of the season, the Redskins defense put up staggering numbers. The defense held opponents to only 11.7 points a contest and only 4.3 yards per play. They scored two touchdowns on defense and set up the Redskins offense 14 times inside the 50-yard line. The unit also posted 20 takeaways (10 interceptions and 10 fumble recoveries) and also produced 20 sacks. While facing some of the NFL's top running backs, the Redskins defense did not allow a 100-yard rusher during that span. The Redskins defense ended the 2005 regular season ninth in the NFL and sixth in the NFC. During the regular season, the unit held opponents to only 18.3 points per game and forced 28 turnovers (six in postseason). The team also collected 35 sacks and 16 interceptions.

Williams took over the Redskins' defensive unit after three years as head coach of the Buffalo Bills. During his tenure in Buffalo, his defenses improved tremendously over each of his three seasons. In 2003 the Bills' defense finished second in the NFL, improving from 15th in 2002 and 21st in 2001. Overall, the Bills' 2003 defensive and special teams units finished among the NFL's top-5 teams in nine categories. Buffalo finished second in the league (first in the AFC) in total defense and second in pass defense, as well as making vast improvements stopping their opponents' run game, ranking eighth in the NFL after finishing 29th overall in 2002.

He took over as head coach of the Bills after 11 seasons with the Tennessee organization, including the defensive coordinator position for four seasons (1997-00). Williams proved his talent quickly within the Tennessee program, beginning his career with the team in 1990 as a defensive quality control coach.

Under his leadership in 2000, the Titans' defensive unit led the league in total defense for the first time since joining the NFL and the 191 points allowed were the third fewest in the NFL since the league adopted a 16-game schedule in 1978. The team also established the franchise's single-season records for sacks (55), fewest passing yards allowed (2,424), and fewest touchdowns allowed (17). The Titans ranked first in the AFC and second in the NFL over the 1999-00 seasons in sacks with 109 combined. Tennessee was the only team in the NFL to place in the top seven in both run (3) and pass defense (1); and over their last 37 games under Williams, the Titans' run defense allowed only three 100-yard rushers. Tennessee reached Super Bowl XXXIV after winning the AFC title in 2000.

Before taking over as defensive coordinator for the Titans, he spent three seasons (1994-96) as linebackers coach when the franchise was in Houston, after spending the 1993 season heading up the Oilers' special teams units. During the 1993 campaign, Williams' special teams unit had the top-rated punting game and ranked sixth in kickoff return defense. From 1990-92, Williams served as the club's first quality control coordinator. In addition, Williams previously assisted coaching the Oilers' defensive backs, assisted the scout teams for practice sessions and helped the defensive coaching staff on game days.

Prior to joining the NFL, Williams worked with the University of Houston as a graduate assistant (1988-89) under former Oilers and Redskins head coach Jack Pardee. From 1984-87, Williams was the head coach at Belton (MO) High School after spending the 1980-83 seasons as an assistant coach at his hometown of Excelsior Springs (MO) High School.

Williams also plays a substantial role in the community. He is particularly involved in efforts in his hometown of Excelsior Springs, MO but also the Washington D.C. area and previously Buffalo, Nashville and Houston. Officially established in 2004, Williams created the Gregg Williams Foundation, Inc.

(www.greggwilliamsfoundation.org) to benefit the children of the Excelsior Springs community. For the past three years he has held the Gregg Williams Tiger Golf Classic as well as hosting a local coaching clinic and seven-on-seven tournament with a linemen challenge with funds raised going towards the installment of new scoreboards for the high school gym, college scholarship programs, recreation parks, a practice field irrigation system and a newly formed Robotics Team within the school's science department. In 2005, the foundation sponsored a Hall of Fame dinner, honoring the new inductees to the Excelsior Springs High School Hall of Fame. Williams himself became an inductee in July 2006.

A native of Excelsior Springs, MO, Williams was a quarterback and also played baseball at Northeast Missouri State, where he received his bachelor of science degree. He later earned his master's degree in education from Central Missouri State. Williams and his wife, Leigh Ann, have a daughter, Amy, and two sons, Blake and Chase.

Joe Bugel

Assistant Head Coach – Offense

30th NFL Season/13th Redskins

Joe Bugel returned to the Redskins in 2004 as assistant head coach for offense. The 29-year NFL coaching veteran has a long and storied history with the Redskins that includes building the legendary "Hogs," the Redskins offensive line of the 1980s. Bugel once again oversees the offensive line and looks to build similar success that he enjoyed during his first tour with the team.

The Redskins offensive line is loaded with talent and size, led by left tackle Chris Samuels and right tackle Jon Jansen in 2006. Samuels had an exceptional season and was voted to the Pro Bowl for his efforts. Jansen returned from an achilles injury in 2004 to start every game in 2005 and 15 games in 2006. Randy Thomas was once again a stellar interior blocker for the Redskins, starting all 16 games at right guard. The Redskins also saw solid play from center Casey Rabach and guard Derrick Dockery who both started every game last season.

Bugel is well known to Redskins fans from his last coaching tour with the burgundy and gold, also under Head Coach Joe Gibbs. From 1981-89, he developed the dominating "Hogs" offensive line that included stalwarts Russ Grimm, Joe Jacoby, Mark May, Jeff Bostic, George Starke and others. He began as the Redskins offensive coordinator in 1981 and was promoted to assistant head coach in 1983. Under Bugel's direction, the Redskins scored a then-NFL record 541 points (1983), had four 1,000-yard rushers, one 4,000-yard passer and nine 1,000-yard receivers. Washington won two Super Bowls while Bugel was with the team, following the 1982 and 1987 seasons.

In 24 seasons as an NFL assistant, Bugel's teams have posted a record of 191-163, including 14 winning seasons and nine playoff appearances. Overall, Bugel has participated in three Super Bowls, six conference championships and 23 playoff contests.

He returned to coaching in 2004 after a two-year respite, after spending four seasons overseeing the offensive line of the San Diego Chargers (1998-2001). He spent three seasons with the Oakland Raiders, serving as assistant head coach/offense from 1995-96 before being named head coach for the 1997 season. Before working in Oakland, he served as head coach of the Arizona Cardinals from 1990-93.

He joined the NFL in 1975, spending two seasons as the offensive line coach for the Detroit Lions. He joined the Houston Oilers in the same capacity in 1977. During his four seasons with the Oilers, the team set records in rushing and passing. Before joining the NFL, Bugel spent time coaching at Ohio State (1974), Iowa State (1973), Navy (1969-72) and his alma mater, Western Kentucky (1964-68). While earning his degree in physical education, Bugel was an all-conference guard and linebacker. He earned a master's degree in counseling, also at Western Kentucky. A Pittsburgh native, Bugel was a two-way star in football at Munhall H.S. In 2005, he was inducted into the Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame (Western Chapter).

Bugel and his wife, Brenda, have three daughters: Angie, Holly, and Jennifer and a son-in-law, Monte.

pressures. Golston started 13 games as a rookie and finished with 59 tackles (35 solo).

During Blache's time in Chicago, the Bears defense saw tremendous improvement. In 2003, his defense finished the season fifth in the NFC in total defense, and 14th in the NFL, the team's highest league overall-ranking since the 1998 season. During his tenure, Blache's defenses forced 138 turnovers, including 37 in 2001, the most by a Bears defense since 1990, and accounted for 13 touchdowns (two in 1999, four in 2000, five in 2001, one in 2002, and one in 2003).

In 2002, Blache dealt with numerous injuries, leading to 11 different starting line-ups over the course of 16 games. While juggling personnel, the Bears defense continued with their attacking, aggressive style that set records during the 2001 season. They forced 64 tackles behind the line of scrimmage and reached a league plateau by forcing at least one turnover in 33 consecutive games, the second longest active streak in the NFL at the time.

In 2001, Blache molded the Bears defense into one of the top units in the league, producing the top-ranked scoring defense by allowing only 203 points in 16 games (12.7 points per game). His run defense finished second in the NFL and first in the NFC, allowing just 82.1 yards per game, while allowing only three rushes of 20 yards or more all seasons and only six rushing touchdowns.

Coaching: After five seasons as defensive coordinator in Chicago, Greg Blache joined the Redskins in 2004 to head up a strong defensive line unit. Leading the Redskins defensive front in 2006 were returning veterans Phillip Daniels and Cornelius Griffin, newcomer Andre Carter and rookie Kedric Golston. Together, they combined for 245 tackles. Carter impressed down the stretch, finishing the season with the team lead in sacks with six while adding 21 quarterback

Prior to joining the Bears, Blache served as defensive line coach for the Indianapolis Colts for five seasons (1994-98) and held the same position with the Green Bay Packers for six years (1988-93).

In addition to his pro coaching experience, Blache has held positions with several college programs. He began his coaching career as a defensive assistant at his alma mater Notre Dame in 1968, after suffering a leg injury that ended his playing career. Following his graduation in 1971, he stayed on as a graduate assistant and then as an assistant coach for the Fighting Irish for four more seasons (1972-75). He moved on to join Tulane's staff in 1976, where he coached the offensive line (1976-77), outside linebackers (1978-79) and defensive backs (1980). He then returned to Notre Dame to coach the running backs (1981), defensive line and outside linebackers (1982-83). After spending 1984-85 as defensive line coach of the USFL's Jacksonville Bulls, he returned to the college ranks at Southern University (1986) and Kansas (1987).

Playing: Blache started his collegiate career as a defensive back for Notre Dame, but a leg injury ended his playing career prematurely.

Personal: He earned his bachelor's degree in sociology and a master's degree in secondary education, both from Notre Dame. A New Orleans native, Blache and his wife, Lynn, have six children: Greg Jr., Jennifer, Christopher, Sarah, Corrine and Matthew. They live in Leesburg, VA.

MVP and Smith set a Super Bowl rushing record with 204 yards. During Breaux's tenure, his running backs produced seven 1,000-yard rushing seasons. In more than half of his NFL coaching seasons, Breaux has produced a Pro Bowl player.

After leaving the Redskins in 1993, he served as tight ends coach for the New York Jets in 1994. He went on to join the original coaching staff of the expansion Carolina Panthers in 1995, and remained with the team for eight seasons as tight ends coach. He helped tutor Wesley Walls to five Pro Bowl selections.

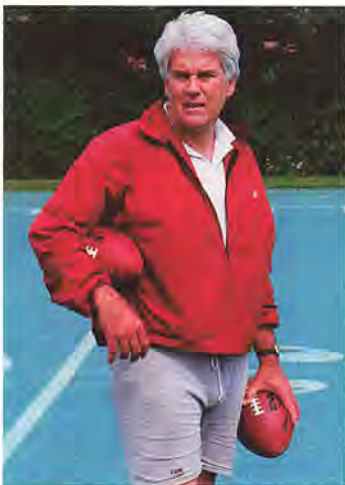

Prior to joining the Redskins in 1981, Breaux worked 14 years on the collegiate level with teams that made 12 post-season appearances. His resume includes time at Florida State (1966-67), Arkansas (1968-71, 1977-80), Florida (1973-74) and Texas (1975-76). He made his pro coaching debut in 1972 as running backs coach for the Houston Oilers.

Playing: Breaux experienced a stand-out career as a quarterback at McNeese State before heading to the professional ranks with Denver of the AFL in 1963 and the San Diego Chargers from 1964-65.

During Burns' first season in Washington, in 1989, the Redskins led the NFL in passing. Quarterback Mark Rypien had his best season that year, resulting in a Pro Bowl selection.

Before taking a year off in 2003, Burns was coaching with the Atlanta Falcons in several different capacities on offense. Most recently, as the Falcon's quarterbacks coach (2001-02) he worked with one of the NFL's brightest young stars in quarterback Michael Vick, Atlanta's number one-overall draft pick in 2001. Under Burns' tutelage, Vick quickly emerged into one of the NFL's most dynamic players in his first year as starter and was voted to the Pro Bowl in 2001. In 2000, Burns was the Falcons' wide receivers coach and served as the passing game/play calling coach in 1999. He began his career in Atlanta as quarterbacks coach in 1997, helping Chris Chandler earn two Pro Bowl invites during that time. He focused on the Falcons' wide receivers for the 2000 season.

Burns was offensive coordinator for the Minnesota Vikings during the 1992 and 1993 seasons, also coaching the quarterbacks. The Vikings led the league in scoring in 1992 while Pro Bowlers Cris Carter, Anthony Carter and Roger Craig flourished in Burns' system.

His college coaching resume began in Florida in 1971 and was followed by stints at Louisville (1974), Texas (1976), Vanderbilt (1977-78) and Auburn (1979-80). He entered the professional coaching ranks with the Tampa Bay Bandits under former Redskins head coach Steve Spurrier in 1981.

Playing: Burns played defensive back at Florida from 1967-70.

Personal: He and his wife, Robin, have two children: Chase and McKensie.

Coaching: Jack Burns re-joined the Redskins coaching staff in 2004 as quarterbacks coach with an extensive pedigree of molding talented offensive players in his 13 seasons in professional football. He spent the past two seasons filling the role of offensive assistant. He previously coached under the Joe Gibbs-led Washington teams from 1989 to 1991 as an offensive assistant/receivers coach, guiding the famed "Posse" of Art Monk, Gary Clark and Ricky Sanders to average 210 catches for

He led the team in receptions (84), receiving yards (1,483), and average yards per catch (17.7) and was second with nine touchdowns. He finished second in the NFL in receiving yards and sixth in the NFC and 10th in the NFL in receptions. Moss was named NFC Offensive Player of the Week twice, after remarkable performances at Dallas and home against the New York Giants.

For four seasons at LSU (2000-03), Hixon coached players to three 1,000-yard seasons and had a player named first-team All-SEC three times. In 2003, Hixon served as associate head coach in addition to wide receivers coach for the 2003 college football National Champion Tigers.

Taylor returned with his big playmaking abilities, leading all defensive backs with 80 tackles (60 solo), one sack, two interceptions and eight pass deflections. While small in stature, Ryan Clark proved to be one of the hardest hitters on the team. He finished the season with 72 tackles (48 solo), three interceptions and three pass deflections in 12 starts. Prioleau, Matt Bowen and Omar Stoutmire provided depth at the position and finished with a combined 62 tackles (49 solo) and two sacks.

Coaching: Bob Saunders joined the Redskins staff in 2006 as an offensive assistant, following four seasons with the Kansas City Chiefs in a similar capacity. In Kansas City, Saunders contributed to the development of the NFL's top ranked offense for two years (2004-05) and the top ranked scoring offense in 2002 and 2003 as the quality control coach and assistant wide receivers coach. His game planning responsibilities included researching the club's offensive

17th Redskins

Coaching: Rennie Simmons, yet another impressive veteran NFL assistant, came back to the Redskins in 2004 for his second tour. With a distinguished resume of his own, Simmons brought another level of experience and versatility to the Washington staff, serving in several different capacities on offense during his football coaching career.

Under Simmon's guidance, tight end Chris Cooley led the Redskins in receiving in 2006 with 57 catches for 734 yards and six touchdowns. He finished 40 yards shy of his career mark set in 2005 but his 12.9 yard average per catch was the highest of his career, earning him an alternate Pro Bowl bid. Todd Yoder and Brian Kozlowski added depth to the position last season.

Head Coach Joe Gibbs is more than familiar with the teaching talents of Simmons, coaching with him from 1981-93 on the sidelines of RFK Stadium, and more recently as a minority owner of the Atlanta Falcons, where Simmons spent seven seasons, working with the offensive line in 2003. Their history goes as far back as high school, when they both attended Santa Fe High and then went on to San Diego State to play for Coach Don Coryell.

Simmons joined the Redskins staff in 1981 as tight ends coach (1981-89), moved to coach the offensive line in 1990-91, and then the receivers in 1992-93. During those years, he was responsible for an impressive group of players and helped lead the Redskins to four Super Bowl appearances and three Championship

Special Teams

Danny Smith

13th NFL Season
4th Redskins

Coaching: Coach Gibbs won't hesitate to tell anyone how important he considers special teams, and how much hard work the Redskins put in on Teams. Leading that charge is Danny Smith, who came to Washington in 2004 following a three-year stay in Buffalo working with Assistant Head Coach Gregg Williams.

The Redskins special teams unit put together a solid season in 2006, with both a kickoff (Rock Cartwright, 100 yards, in Week 2) and a punt return (Antwaan Randle El, 87 yards, in Week 7) for a touchdown. In addition, the unit blocked two punts (Cartwright and Vernon Fox) and one field goal (Troy Vincent). Rookie Rocky McIntosh also added a deflected punt that doesn't officially count as a block since the ball passed the line of scrimmage. Vincent's blocked field goal against Dallas in Week 8 set up the Redskins thrilling victory, as it resulted in a game winning 47-yard field goal with no time remaining to lift the team to a win against their division rival. Several players were key contributors on special teams throughout the year, as the Redskins boast one of the League's most outstanding cover units as well. Khary Campbell led the squad with 37 total tackles on special teams, while McIntosh was second with 28, and Fox, James Thrash, Cartwright, Mike Sellers, and Ade Jimoh all had more than 20 tackles this season. The unit finished the year 4th in the NFL in kickoff coverage and 8th in punt coverage.

In Smith's second year with the Redskins in 2005, the team finished 2nd in the NFL in punt coverage as well as 6th in the NFL in kickoff coverage.

During Smith's tenure in Buffalo, the Bills' special teams units prospered dramatically. His unit finished third in the league in kick-off coverage at the end of 2003, as well as finishing in the top-ten in field goal percentage, points per game, and both gross and net punt averages.

Smith previously served as tight ends coach with the Detroit Lions during the 1999 and 2000 seasons following a four-year stint with the Philadelphia Eagles (1995-98), two seasons on special teams and two with the defensive backs.

Before joining the NFL ranks, Smith spent eight years at Georgia Tech (1987-94) where he coached several positions including running backs, wide receivers and defensive backs. He was with the Yellow Jackets when they split the 1990 Division I-A National Championship. Smith began his college coaching career as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, Edinboro State, and also spent time at The Citadel, William & Mary and Clemson. He entered the coaching ranks at his high school alma mater, Central Catholic High School, in Pittsburgh where he helped tutor former Miami Dolphins quarterback and Hall of Famer Dan Marino.

Personal: Smith graduated from Edinboro State. He and his wife, Elaine, have three children: Erin, Courtney and Jason.

Vice President of Football Operations

Vinny Cerrato

17th NFL Season
8th Redskins

Vinny Cerrato begins his eighth season with Washington, currently overseeing all aspects of player personnel. In his role as Vice President of Football Operations, his responsibilities include managing the Redskins draft, identifying free agency needs and acquisitions, coordination of all pro and college player evaluations, and day-to-day football operations of the organization.

Cerrato began his first tour in Washington in the summer of 1999.

His first two years in Washington were busy, helping acquire future Hall of Famers Bruce Smith and Deion Sanders, as well as several free agents including Irving Fryar and Mark Carrier. He recently orchestrated trades with the New York Jets (Santana Moss) and Denver Broncos (Clinton Portis) and swapped first-round draft picks with the 49ers, leading to the additions of the second and third overall picks in the 2000 NFL Draft (LB LaVar Arrington and OT Chris Samuels).

Cerrato left the Redskins for the 2001 season, spending the year as an analyst for ESPN and ESPN.com. He rejoined the team in 2002 as Director of Player Personnel and was named Vice President of Football Operations in 2003.

Before coming to Washington, he spent nine seasons with the San Francisco 49ers including their Super Bowl XXX year in 1994. He joined San Francisco in 1991 as Director of College Scouting, helping to draft players including Ted Washington, Ricky Watters, Dana Stubblefield and Bryant Young. In 1995, Cerrato was promoted to Director of Player Personnel, overseeing all college scouting and draft activities as well as pro scouting of NFL players and opponents. Again, Cerrato made an impact as his drafts produced such stand-outs as Terrell Owens, Lee Woodall and Lance Schulters.

Before breaking into the NFL, Cerrato served as the football recruiting coordinator under Lou Holtz at Notre Dame (1986-90). During that time, the Irish played in four Bowl games, won the 1988 NCAA National Championship, and had 23 players selected in the first and second rounds of the NFL Draft. Cerrato started his career as a graduate assistant for the Minnesota Golden Gophers (1983-84) before he was promoted to recruiting coordinator in 1985, a position he served one year before moving on to Notre Dame.

A 1982 graduate of Iowa State, Cerrato lettered at quarterback and wide receiver all four years. He was born in Flushing, NY and grew up in Albert Lea, MN, where he played football, track and hockey. Cerrato and his wife Rebecca, a doctor doing a fellowship in orthopedics specializing in foot and ankle, have two sons, Vincent John and Charles.

Cartwright finished the season setting a team record of 1,541 return yards on 64 kickoff returns for an average of 24.1 and one touchdown. His first career kick return for a touchdown, 100 yards, came against the Dallas Cowboys in Week 2 and is the third-longest in team history. Thanks to Rock's returns, the Redskins ranked third in the NFC in average starting field position, with an average starting yard line of 28.6. He also recorded 25 special teams tackles and a blocked punt, the first of his career, against the Atlanta Falcons in Week 13. Cartwright has become a fan favorite in his time with the Redskins, endearing himself to the fans with his nickname, inspired play and contagious enthusiasm.

NFL Acquisition: Portis was selected in the second round (51st overall) by the Denver Broncos in the 2002 NFL Draft.

How Acquired: Portis was acquired in a trade with the Denver Broncos in exchange for cornerback Champ Bailey on March 4, 2004.

Career Highlights:2006 Season:

- He recorded 16 rushes for 86 yards with a long of 30 and two touchdowns in Week 3 at Houston (9/24). Portis also recorded two receptions for a team high 78 yards, and set a career-high with a 74-yard reception.

Portis In Brief

Portis showed his toughness last season after fighting through a shoulder injury in the pre-season to still lead the team with seven touchdowns and finish second on the team in rushing yards. His season was cut short after breaking his hand in Week 9 and being placed on injured reserve November 14. Prior to being placed on IR Portis eclipsed the 6,000 yard mark in only his fourth season. Portis was acquired by the Redskins in a blockbuster trade during the 2004 off-season for Champ Bailey. He was named to the Pro Bowl in 2003 and was the NFL Offensive Rookie of the Year in 2002.

- Portis was placed on the injured reserve with a hand injury on 11/14.

2005 Season:

- Portis started all 16 games in 2005 and recorded 1,516 yards on 352 carries (4.3 avg.) and 11 touchdowns; he also added 216 yards on 30 receptions.
- He set a franchise record for the most rushing yards in a season (1,516) and continued his franchise record-setting year with nine 100-yard rushing games in a season.
- Portis finished the year with the third highest average yards per carry in the NFC (4.3) and fourth highest in the NFL.
- He finished third in the NFC and sixth in the NFL in most yards from scrimmage (1,732).
- He led the team with 11 rushing touchdowns.
- Portis also threw for one touchdown; a 17-yard completion to tight end Chris Cooley against the New York Giants in Week 16 (12/24).

2004 Season:

- Portis played and started 15 games before landing on injured reserve with a pectoral injury.
- He took his first hand off as a Redskin 64-yards for a touchdown (season opener vs. TB, 9/12) and had the most rushing yards (148) in a season opener by a Redskin since 1965.
- He became the fourth Redskin to eclipse the 1,300-yard mark in a single season and finished with the 6th highest single season rushing total (1,315) in Redskins' history.
- Portis finished the season with the 4th most carries (343) in a single season by a Redskins running back.
- Among his many achievements last season, Portis ranked 8th in the NFL and 3rd in the NFC in rushing yards, 5th in the NFL and 2nd in the NFC in rushing attempts, 11th in the NFL and 4th in the NFC in yards per game (87.7), and was named a 1st alternate to the 2005 Pro Bowl.
- He was one of only eight WR/RB's in the NFL to complete a TD pass in a game in 2004 (15-yards to WR Laveranues Coles at Detroit, 11/7).

2003 Season:

- Portis was invited to play in his first Pro Bowl after another record-setting season with the Broncos. He started 13 games and posted 290 carries for 1,591 and 14 touchdowns. He also added 38 catches for 314 yards. He ranked third on the team in receptions with a career-high 38 for 314 yards (8.3 avg.) with a long of 72, for a team-leading 1,905 total yards from scrimmage, despite having played only one half in Weeks 2-3, missing Week 4 (vs. Det.) because of a bruised sternum and missing Week 16-17 (at Ind. and at G.B.) with a high ankle sprain.
- Portis ranked fifth in the NFL in rushing yards (career-high 1,591); fifth in the AFC (7th NFL) in total yards from scrimmage (career-high 1,905) and led all NFL running backs in yards per carry (5.5).

- He closed his regular season by posting six straight 100-yd. games (Wks. 10-15; inactive final two weeks due to an ankle injury) and had a career-best 10 100-yd. rushing performances.
- He tied for third in the AFC (T9th NFL) in total touchdowns, tied for third in the NFL in rushing TDs and third in the AFC (6th NFL) in points scored among non-kickers. He also ranked sixth in the AFC (4th NFL) in first downs (86).
- Portis joined Eric Dickerson and Edgerrin James as the only players in NFL history to rush for at least 1,500 yards in each of their first two seasons. He rushed for more yards in his first two seasons (3,099) than all but three players in NFL history: Dickerson (3,913), James (3,262) and Earl Campbell (3,147).
- Portis was named AFC Offensive Player of the Week for Week 14 vs. K.C. (12/7) and earned the NFL's FedEx Ground Player of the Week award three times (Wks. 1, 13 & 14).
- Portis had 120 yards and two scores at Cincinnati (9/7) on 24 carries, earning him the NFL's FedEx Ground Player of the Week award.
- In Week 2 at SD (9/14), Portis rushed for 129 yards on just 12 carries (10.8) before leaving the game for good late in the first half because of a bruised sternum.
- In the home opener vs. Oak. (9/22), Portis rushed 10 times for 42 yards (4.2) with a long of 13 and caught one pass for no gain, while being played sparingly after the first quarter due to an existing sternum injury.
- Portis bounced back from a sternum injury that caused him to miss Week 4 (vs. Det.) to rush for a then season-high 141 yards on 23 carries (6.1) and a touchdown, and a reception of 60+ yards in the same game. The others to accomplish this feat are San Francisco's Delvin Williams in 1976 (80 & 85 vs. WAS, Nov. 7) and Herschel Walker in 1986 (84 & 84 vs. Phil, Dec. 14).
- In addition, 110 of Portis' 141 yards came in the second half, giving him his second 100-yd. half of the season, and fourth of his career. In Week 7 at Min. (10/19), he rushed for 117 yards and a touchdown on 25 carries (4.7), while adding three receptions for 43 yards (14.3).
- He went over 100 yards for the fifth time in eight games in Week 9 vs. N.E. (11/3), carrying the ball 26 times for 111 yards (4.3) and a touchdown, while adding four receptions for 20 yards (5.0).
- Two weeks later (after a bye), vs. S.D. (11/16), Portis recorded his 14th career 100-yard rushing game, tallying 106 yards on 25 carries (4.2), versus Chi. (11/23), he ran for a then-season-high and second best of his career 165 yards on 14 carries (11.8) to put him over 1,000 yards for the second year in a row, and caught three passes for 23 yards (7.7).
- He ran a career-high 34 times for a season-high 170 yards (5.0) and two touchdowns at Oak. (11/30), while adding a catch for seven yards and his first career two-point conversion. Adding his 170 rushing yards to the previous week's total (165 yards vs. Chi.) gave Portis the best two-game output of his career. His performance was also good enough to garner the NFL's FedEx Ground Player of the Week award for the second time that season.

- His 17 total touchdowns and 102 points both tied for third in the NFL (non-kickers) in 2002.

REDSKINS MILESTONES

'Redskin' Through the Years...

Red Cloud. Red Thunder. Red Eagle. Redlands. Red mud.

"The term redskin, applied by Europeans to Algonquians in general and the Delawares in particular," says the Reader's Digest in its book America's Fascinating Indian Heritage, "was inspired not by their natural complexion but by their fondness for vermilion makeup, concocted from fat mixed with berry juice and minerals that provided the desired color." The men "would streak their faces and bodies with bright red ocher and bloodroot," adds the Reader's Digest.

Indians painted their skin for decorative and ceremonial purposes. "Red is generally accepted as being one of the colors most easily available to and most used by Indians," as Ronald P. Koch states in his book Dress Clothing of the Plains Indians.

Welcome to

FedExField®

FedExField is the premier stadium in the National Football League. Located in Landover, MD, the privately financed FedExField was completed in a record 17 months and hosted the Redskins home opener September 14, 1997 — a 19-13 overtime win against the Arizona Cardinals.

The stadium is located on a 200-acre site and is the largest stadium in the NFL with 91,704 seats — over 11,000 more than the next largest — the Meadowlands in New Jersey. FedExField is one of just two stadiums with three tiers of luxury suites, a total of 243. Suites are equipped with restrooms, a refrigerator, televisions, a lounge area, two rows of seats, and bar stools.

FedExField increased the Redskins attendance capacity by over 40% when the team left RFK Stadium after 1996. Nevertheless, the Redskins have sold out every home game for the past 38 seasons (294 regular season and 13 playoff games) including all 89 (preseason, regular and postseason) contests at FedExField. All eight games for the 2007 season are sold out as well as both preseason contests.

Construction on FedExField began in March 1996 and cost $250 million. The following year, $30 million was spent to create a 170,000 square-foot atrium encircling the entire stadium making the Joe Gibbs Club Level the most spectacular in the league.

When Daniel M. Snyder became the Redskins owner in July 1999, one of his first tasks was to make additional improvements to FedExField. Immediately, millions were invested in such projects as replacing metal rails with glass rails in order to provide unobstructed sight lines in the stadium bowl. The sound system was significantly upgraded and the parking lot was re-structured and re-routed to greatly improve the traffic flow on game days.

Since his inaugural season, Snyder has spent more than $100 million to enhance FedExField. Over the past five seasons, numerous additions have been made. Escalators have been added for fans seated in the stadium's upper tier. The spectacular new Owner's Club Suite Level has been created. A 3,000-foot circumference wind screen has been installed around the top of the stadium to improve fan comfort. A sophisticated radiant heating system has been installed on the loge level. Seats have been added to the upper, lower and loge levels. The Field Club section of seating was added immediately around the playing field, dubbed the "dream seats," given they put fans almost on top of the action. The Hall of Fame Store, the original Official Redskins Store, has been remodeled and completely re-merchandised with new Redskins products. Finally, the field has been improved and re-sodded.

During the off-season and while the Redskins are away during the football season, FedExField hosts a variety of special events. During the summer of 2005 FedExField hosted country music icon Kenny Chesney's "Somewhere in the Sun 2005" concert and the "Clash of Champions" soccer match between English Premier League member Chelsea FC and Major League Soccer's D.C. United. For more information regarding FedExField events, check out Redskins.com.

FedExField

On September 14, 1997, the Redskins opened their new stadium with a thrilling 19-13 overtime victory over the Arizona Cardinals in front of a record crowd of Washington fans.

In their first game at their new home, the Redskins were forced into overtime when Cardinals kicker Kevin Butler connected on a 47-yard field goal to tie the score with just two seconds remaining.

The Cards won the toss to start the extra period, but rookie defensive lineman Kenard Lang stripped Arizona running back Leeland McElroy of the football, and Derek M. Smith recovered for the Redskins on the 35-yard line. Quarterback Gus Frerotte was sacked on first down, but on the next play he found Michael Westbrook in the endzone for a game-winning 40-yard TD.

Welcome to Redskins Park

Rising from a former dairy farm and set on picturesque 162 acres of land in Ashburn, Virginia, Redskins Park is home to the Gerald S. Snyder Training Facility, the team's year-round headquarters.

The team has called Redskins Park its home since August of 1992, enjoying a private haven away from urban distractions. The complex features four football fields, strength training and sports medicine facilities, offices and meeting rooms for players, coaches and front office staff, and accommodations for print and broadcast media. The building amasses some 65,000 square feet.

Located in Loudoun County, recently named the fastest growing area in the United States, Redskins Park is tucked away from highways and other office buildings. The two-story concrete and glass structure looks deceiving in size. Visitors enter a bright, spacious lobby that leads to three carefully groomed natural grass playing fields and an additional astro-turf practice surface.

The downstairs part of the building is dedicated to football operations, including player and staff locker rooms, a newly enhanced strength and conditioning center, the equipment room, athletic training rooms and video studio. The athletic training facilities include an x-ray room and dentist office, in addition to private examining rooms for the medical staff that cares for the team throughout the year. The lower level consists of a racquetball court and a half-court basketball gym. A catering kitchen is located adjacent to the gym, used as a dining hall during team practice sessions throughout the year. A state-of-the-art players' lounge was added in 2004 as well as a television studio for taping the daily interviews fans throughout the country see on local and national TV.

One side of the upper floor consists of coaches' and personnel offices and a large, 105-seat multipurpose auditorium, used for team meetings, press conferences, and film sessions. The other side of the building houses offices for the club's accounting, marketing, public relations and administrative offices. The public area of the building consists of large hallways, high ceilings with natural lighting, and numerous trophy cases displaying the team's rich history and tradition.

A brand new television and radio studio was completed in the rear of the building in 2005. The glassed studio overlooks the facilities' four practice fields. A first-floor media room has individual cubicles and workspace for beat and visiting media. The media room, auditorium, and locker room are wired for direct television uplink.

In 2005, an additional building adjacent to the main facility was constructed housing the Redskins Charitable Foundation, publishing, information technology, and retail departments.

Washington Redskins Training Camp

Presented by RE/MAX

The Washington Redskins will open 2007 Training Camp presented by RE/MAX on July 27th at Redskins Park, the team's year-round practice complex in Ashburn, Virginia. This will be the sixth year the team has chosen to stay home to prepare for the NFL season, taking advantage of the Redskins' state-of-the-art training resources and facilities.

Training camp is an annual ritual in the NFL, an opportunity for fans from all over the country to come see their favorite Redskins players in action on the practice field, and get a first glimpse of the newly signed free agents and draft picks.

During the first two weeks of camp, a number of practices are open to fans, free of charge. Visitors are encouraged to bring lawn chairs or blankets, as they will be able to sit along the hill overlooking the four playing fields. After each practice, fans will have the opportunity to gather autographs and take photos of their favorite players as they walk off the field to the locker rooms.

Extensive media attention is expected, and to assist visiting press in their coverage, the Redskins provide a media tent and workroom equipped with power inputs and phone lines for data transmission. Credentialed media will have additional access to the players and practice areas, and can coordinate interviews through the Redskins Public Relations Department. All media attending Redskins Training Camp must obtain credentials to gain access to the grounds. Media should fax requests on company letterhead to the attention of Brian Hosmer at 703-726-7086, before arriving to their first practice at Redskins Park.

The Redskins first held training camp at Redskins Park in 2000, opening the complex to visitors for the first time in franchise history. Thousands of fans from all over the Washington, D.C. area, and beyond, were able to visit, watch their favorite players just steps from the practice fields, gather autographs and take part in the Redskins experience. After a two-year hiatus, with camp being held at Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pennsylvania, the Redskins returned to Ashburn to get ready for the 2003 season.

Dates: The Redskins report to camp on July 27th and will conduct public practices through August 8th. The Redskins at Baltimore Ravens scrimmage will be held on Saturday, August 4th at M&T Bank Stadium. For a detailed practice schedule, please visit Redskins.com for more information, including updated team news, Training Camp directions and answers to frequently asked questions. Ample parking will be available to all fans visiting Redskins Park at no cost.

Washington Redskins Stats Crew

An integral part of every Redskins game at FedExField is the dedicated staff of statisticians and assistants that monitor every snap, tackle, run, pass and catch that takes place on the playing field. The Redskins stats crew is responsible for generating official game stats, compiling and inputting play-by-play information into a computer database that quickly makes the data available for use by team coaches, the NFL and the media. Jon Stratton heads up the group, beginning his 21st year of service. His crew is among the League's best, with more than 100 years of combined experience.

Washington Redskins Grounds Crew

The playing surface at FedExField is among the very best in the NFL.

The Redskins Grounds Crew is responsible for ensuring that the playing fields at FedExField and Redskins Park are in smooth, safe condition and able to withstand the rigors of NFL football. They work year-round operating the high-tech irrigation system under FedExField, fertilizing, mowing and chalking the field to keep it in top playing condition. During the off-season in 2007, the Redskins grounds crew re-sodded the fields at Redskins Park, preparing for the start of the new football year. The Grounds Crew plays an important role in Redskins community initiatives as well, helping the Washington Redskins Charitable Foundation renovate the football fields of local high schools throughout the region. The program has been so successful that the NFL is encouraging similar programs in other NFL markets.

FedExField Attendance Records

The Washington Redskins led the NFL in home attendance for the seventh consecutive season in 2006, drawing 708,952 fans during their eight regular season home games, which marked the highest total in league history.

First Ladies of Football

Each year, hundreds of talented young women audition for the chance to cheer on the Washington Redskins players and entertain fans along the sidelines of FedExField. Since their inception in 1962, the First Ladies of Football have brought Redskins fans to their feet, both on and off the field.

While the Washington Redskins Cheerleaders are most visible to Redskins fans during the games at FedExField, they also find themselves working weekends and holidays year-round to assist charity and volunteer organizations, fundraisers, and educational foundations. Each year, working with the Department of Defense and Armed Forces Entertainment, members of the Washington squad travel to military bases around the world. As a part of Operation Iraqi Freedom they visited service men and women in Iraq and Italy. Most recently, the cheerleaders traveled to New York for Fleet Week.

Over the last seven years performing for U.S. troops, the Washington Redskins Cheerleaders Variety Show has grown from a small holiday performance to a musical extravaganza that incorporates the latest in funk, rock-n-roll, swing, and jazz, as well as contemporary and country music, with some audience participation thrown in to ensure the show has something for everyone.

Washington Redskins Alumni

The Washington Redskins Alumni Association formed in 1958, the first such alumni group in the country. The organization spearheaded the alumni movement among former professional football players and was the model for other alumni groups that later formed in all NFL cities.

Today, Redskins alumni continue to make their presence known throughout the community. As a very active chapter of the national NFL Alumni Association, they have as their motto "Caring for Kids". In addition to the numerous events and appearances Redskins alums participate in throughout the year, they hold two major fundraising events of their own: the Redskins Alumni Charity Golf Classic, now in its 28th year, and the annual Washington Redskins Welcome Home Luncheon, now in its 46th year. Mark Moseley currently resides as president of the Redskins Alumni Association.

The alumni have an office at Redskins Park and can be reached at 703-726-7488.

Washington Redskins Marching Band

The Redskins Marching Band begins its 69th year leading sell-out crowds at FedExField in the team fight song, "Hail to the Redskins." With bandmaster Billy Ball directing, it is one of just two pro football marching bands still in existence today. The all-volunteer ensemble formed in 1937, when George Preston Marshall brought the team to Washington, D.C., with the goal of entertaining fans from the moment they walked into the stadium until the time they left to go home. For more than six decades, the Marching Band has taken great pleasure in entertaining fans with their pre-game and halftime shows.

Over the years, the Band has marched between train stations and stadiums before notable games, down Broadway before a New York Giants game in the early 1960s, and around the concourse of Tampa Stadium during Super Bowl XVIII.

HAIL TO THE REDSKINS THE REDSKINS FIGHT SONG

*"Hail to the Redskins!
Hail Victory!*

*Braves on the warpath,
Fight for old D.C.!*

*Run or pass and score
we want a lot more!*

*Beat 'em Swamp 'em Touchdown
let the points soar!*

*Fight on, Fight on,
Til you have won,
Sons of Wash-ing-ton!"*

On August 17, 1938, "Hail to the Redskins" made its debut as the official fight song of the Washington Redskins. The song was written by renowned band leader Barnee Breeskin and the lyrics were penned by Hollywood movie star Corinne Griffith, the wife of team founder and owner, George Preston Marshall. Copyright© by EMI Feist, Inc.

Meet the Hogettes

Another trademark of FedExField game day is a sighting of "The Hogettes," a highly spirited group of Redskins fans that dress in polka dot skirts, brightly colored wigs, plastic hog snouts, and enjoy extra-large cigars. "The Hogettes" started appearing at Redskins games in 1983, named after Washington's popular offensive line from the 80's,

"The Hogs". The group can be found at FedExField for every home Redskins game, and sometimes in the stands on road trips. The members are extremely active in the community as well, making appearances at golf tournaments, telethons, and parades to support children's charities. "The Hogettes" received the ultimate die-hard fan honor in 1999, with an induction into the Pro Football Hall of Fame, in the Hall of Fans exhibit in Canton, Ohio.

The Gameday Experience

As Redskins fans enter through the gates of FedExField, they are about to be part of the largest and best game day experiences in all of the NFL. As they get to their seats and prepare for the game, a production team is also preparing behind the scenes for that game. The Redskins Production Department, directed by Anthony Fanticola and Scott Edwards as Executive Producers of Game Day Entertainment lead a talented and experienced team that provide the video, audio and programming for all home games. The Production Department's game day staff numbers close to fifty staff and technicians, who provide the fans all the Redskins coverage and entertainment features pre-, post- and during the game. All of this is seen on two endzone display boards that included two Sony Jumbotrons and two Daktronics displays, that combined measure over 26 feet x 157 feet per endzone display. Mark Kessler in his seventh season as gameday announcer at FedExField and provides the familiar voice in the stadium. In addition to the display boards, the Production Department books all the National Anthem singers, Honor Guards, flyovers, and half-time acts for the entire season. They also coordinate all of the gameday performances of the Washington Redskins Marching Band and the First Ladies of Football, the Washington Redskins Cheerleaders.

December 5, 1937. Running back Cliff Battles breaks a 75-yard run and later scored two touchdowns in a 49-14 win over the NY Giants en route to the 1937 NFL Championship.

November 28, 1965. After falling behind 21-0 to the Dallas Cowboys, quarterback Sonny Jurgensen led a masterful 75-yard touchdown drive to come back and beat the Cowboys 34 to 31. It was the greatest comeback in Redskins history.

October 25, 1981. Mike Nelms returns a punt 75 yards for a touchdown to help defeat the New England Patriots, 24-22. The Redskins won 8 of their last 11 games after an 0-5 start to finish 8-8 under rookie head coach Joe Gibbs.

December 18, 2005. Quarterback Mark Brunell engineers a 75-yard touchdown drive with 9 minutes left in the first half, leading the Redskins to a 35-7 throttling of the Dallas Cowboys. It was the rivalry's most lopsided victory.

Congratulations on a 75-year history of great Redskins memories.
